

New website

The Launch of the new look Aztec IT website.

Today our new look site has gone live. Based again on our simple clean black theme we aim to make your surfing experience as simple as possible to allow you find the information that you want quickly and easily.

With a newly added member section to allow you add your own news, reviews and articles to our site, Aztec is rapidly becoming your portal to anything IT related.

We have used a new control set to allow you to alter the size of the text and even the colour of the site. This allows us to let you customise your experience to suit your needs and not restrict you to our choice of font size, colour and readability.

Why stop here though? we have all spent ages online to find information only to find that it will not print out, or there is no easy way to retain the data. With our new site you can now print to PDF, email the information or just print out the content that you require with the use of the icons locate to the top right of each section.
